Parsonage 1891 - About his poem

As part of Heritage Week 2017 I read poetry in Corravahan House. Intrigued by the house I explored its history and how it was a favoured sister building of the See House, Kilmore, also built by architect William Farrell.

Elegant and homely, it belongs to the family of Rachel Cullivan and Ian Elliot. They were delighted to let me have a look around and delve into the history.

I told the story of Charles, son of the Reverend Charles Leslie who was the Bishop of Kilmore in the late 1870's. This Charles Leslie had joined the army, The King Own Brothers but had taken ill and been sent home to Corravahan. His life much curtailed, he was a keen writer and wrote of the times then in Corravahan and life in Cavan.
