The Farmers Catechism

What is your name. Oppression

Who gave you this name. My landlord and agent in the days of my youth, wherein I was made a child of toil, a man of sorrow, and an inheritor of a bundle of fags.

What did your landlord and agent then for you. Thee did promise and swear three things in my name; first that I should renounce all the comforts of this life, and all pleasures found therein. Secondly that I should be a hewer of wood and drawer of water, and thirdly that I should be a slave for them all the days of my life.

Dost them not think that thou art bound to believe and to do as imposed upon. No verily and by gods help, I will endeavour to shake off the chains by which I am bound, better my condition, and continue in the same vein my lifes end.

Rehearse the articles of thy beliefs

I believe that God is no respecter of persons, that he is king of kings, and a lord of lords; and that he created all things for the good of man, and that every man should enjoy the fruits of his labour is worthy of this him (sic) ; I also believe that I do not enjoy the fruits of my labour , for I am compelled to give it to men who reap where they do not sow, and gather where they have not strewn, who are better known in the banqueting hall, the foreign club house, and or the betting field, than in the school of industry or amongst their honest care worn tenantry, save when the corn is ripe. I also believe that I am not able to pay my rent from the produce of my farm, and that the pomp and vanity of those men who like birds of passage, learn when they get the last grain of corn; men who live in ease and indolence rolling about in purple and fine linen, and faring sceptre every day on the toil and sweat of their fellow creatures and revelling on the bread of idleness, have reached its highest climax and that it is full time they should be brought to know and feel that the stalwart farmers are the bone and sinew of the land, and that they will no longer endure or submit to the burdens heaped on them by a class of extravagant landlords who are the chief cause of the grievances of this country. I believe in the fall of rents, the lowering of taxes, the suppression of all crime and the emancipation of all slaves.

What dost thou chiefly learn in these articles of thy belief?

First I learn that Justice demands such a state of things to cease, that rents must fall, and that tenant rights must be carried to the satisfaction of the people, no matter what government rules or who wields the sceptre, and secondly that honest independent men must be sent out to value the land and a fair price laid on according to quality, and that no land must exceed 25 shillings per acre no matter what quality for according to the terms of the Ulster plantation landlords are not entitles to benefits arising from the impoverishment of the soil as all is owing to the labour of the industrious farmer and further that proper security must be given to the tenant s farmer that he or his heirs cannot be removed so long as they pay their rents and conducts themselves as becoming honest peaceful members of society, and thirdly that all classes will go hand in hand, and stand shoulder to shoulder in this legal warfare and never give up till they bring landlord and tenant on a closer equality and of needs stand their opponents to the face in the hour of battle, for he who would not fight for his head would not fight for his sovereign.
