Cavan County Library Stays Connected

Due to current restrictions Cavan Libraries will be physically closed to the public in January 2021 until further government guidelines, but remember our online Library service is available anytime, anywhere!

Throughout the coming weeks you can access FREE eBooks, eAudiobooks, digital magazines, online courses and international newspapers!

Our delivery service to members of our community who are staying at home will resume in January and we will move on with hope.

Visit our website www.cavanlibrary.ie for details and guides on how to access our services online.

Staff members are on site in all branches if you would prefer to get help by phone. We would be delighted to hear from you!

Carmel Cusack Smith, Johnston Central Library, Tara Lynagh, Coordinator, Teach Osaíl Family Resource Centre, Angie McKenna, Coordinator, Focus Family Resource Centre, Killeshandra and Emma Clancy, Cavan County Librarian.

STEM for Families!

Cavan Monaghan Science Festival was delighted to work with the Family Resource Centres in Cavan/ Monaghan during science week 2020 to make available science kits for children. This in turn will expose participating families to STEM (science, technology, engineering, maths) in a way that is user friendly and fun!

Introducing TTRS

Cavan County Library Service is delighted to now offer FREE access to TTRS (Touch Type Read Spell)

This is a wonderful literacy programme that has helped many children and adults in Ireland improve their reading and spelling and to learn touch-typing. It is specifically designed for those with learning differences such as Dyslexia and Dyspraxia but may be used by all.

The student will learn a vocabulary of 4,000 words through typing, seeing the words and sentences on screen and hearing them on headphones.

TTRS is an online programme and students may progress at home or in a school environment at their own pace.

To sign up just call your local branch library, or contact TTRS co-ordinator Fiona Burke at 042 9665779 or email library@cavancoco.ie.

Places are strictly limited and will be based on demand! Go to www.cavanlibrary.ie for more information!
